

WHAT IS CLAIMED IS:

1. A golf chipping target which may be used on a play surface, comprising:
 - a large target defining a perimeter for receiving golf balls chipped by a golfer;
 - a support attached to said target for supporting said large target above a surface;
 - a first net attached to said perimeter of said large target for retaining golf balls passing through the large target;
 - a second target removably connected to said large target, said second target being smaller than said large target; and
 - a second net attached to said second target for retaining golf balls passing through said second target.
2. The golf chipping target of Claim 1, further comprising:
 - a third target, said third target removably connected to said large target; and
 - a third net attached to said third target.
3. The golf chipping target of Claim 2, wherein said third target is removably connected to said second target.

4. The golf chipping target of Claim 1, wherein said large target is pivotally connected to said support.

5. The golf chipping target of Claim 1, further comprising stakes for securing said support to the surface.

6. The golf chipping target of Claim 1, wherein said support comprises a pair of legs.

7. The golf chipping target of Claim 6, wherein said pair of legs are attached to diametrically opposed positions on said large target.

8. The golf chipping net of Claim 6, further comprising a cross member connected to said pair of legs.

9. The golf chipping net of Claim 1, wherein said second target is removably connected to said large target by a strap, said strap removably attached to said large target.

10. The golf chipping net of Claim 9, wherein said strap is removably attached to said large target with snaps.

11. The golf chipping net of Claim 9, wherein said strap is sewn to said second target.

12. The golf chipping net of Claim 9, further comprising a third target, said strap connected to said third target.

13. The golf chipping net of Claim 12, wherein said strap is removably attached to said target.

14. The golf chipping net of Claim 13, further comprises added straps, and wherein said strap is removably attached to said third target with said added straps.

15. The golf chipping net of Claim 1, wherein said first target and second target are concentric.

16. The golf chipping net of Claim 2, wherein said first target, said second target, and said third target are concentric.

17. A method for assembling a golf practice device, comprising:
providing a first target;

attaching a pair of supports to the first target by pivotable connections;
adjusting the angle between the first target and the pair of supports; and tightening the pivotable connections to fix the angle.

18. The method of Claim 17, further comprising providing at least a pair of threaded retainers and tightening the pivotable connections by tightening a threaded retainer onto a threaded fastener.

19. The method of Claim 17, further comprising attaching a second target to the first target, the second target being smaller than the first target.

20. The method of Claim 19, further comprising attaching the second target to the first target by straps.

21. The method of Claim 17, further comprising attaching the pair of supports to the first target at diametrically opposed points.

22. The method of Claim 17, further comprising attaching a second and a third target to the first target, the second target being smaller than the first target and the third target being smaller than the second target.

23. The method of Claim 22, further comprising providing straps; attaching the second and third targets to the first target by the straps.

10047-1001